The committee submits this the eighth annual report.

All the Cemeteries have been in the care of P. J. Call during this year.

The committee cannot report much improvement in the appearance of the Cemeteries the past year. The money voted, for that purpose last year not being used, remaining in the Treasury, to be drawn out when wanted for the purpose intended.

The Town is called to take action on the bequest of Mrs. Dora C. Haseltine late of Lowell Mass. bequeathing to the Town of Windham, the land suitably fenced situated between the "Old" and "New" Cemeteries on the plain, to be used as a public burying ground for the inhabitants of Windham, thus uniting the two Cemeteries. We would state that Mrs. Haseltine has also made provision for a generous addition to the "Cemetery Fund" in the future. It is also very gratifying to the committee to be able to speak of the very generous bequest of three hundred dollars, to the cemetery fund from Miss Sarai Armstrong late of this town. These bequests from two natives of the town in thus providing for the care of the last resting places of those they loved and respected, should impress the committees who have the charge of the cemeteries with the duty and obligation resting on them, and that they see to it, that not only these funds but any funds that may be given for the care of the cemeteries are safely deposited or invested and the income used for the purpose intended when the fund was first proposed.

Respectfully submitted.

B. E. BLANCHARD,
JOHN W. M. WORLEDGE,

SCHOOL REPORT.

The school board of Windham present the following report of the schools for the year ending March 1st 1892.

NUMBER ONE.

There were several cases of scarlet fever in this school during both terms; and the school was closed for a time on that account, both in the spring and fall.

Miss L. T. Carlton of Derry was teacher of the first term. This teacher labored with her usual zeal and energy to advance her pupils and success crowned her efforts in an eminent degree. At the closing review there were twenty-one visitors present and all seemed well satisfied with the exercises. Miss Carlton has taught this school for five consecutive terms, and its present high standing is largely due to her untiring efforts supplemented by a united and interested district. We rather reluctantly consented to release Miss Carlton from her engagement to teach the fall term, so that she might teach in the district in which she lives at Derry.

The sudden death of little Belle McVoy during the summer vacation, caused deep sorrow in the home, and cast a gloom over the school and the entire community.

The fall term was in charge of Miss Jennie M.

Wheeler of Bolton, Mass., who came to this school an entire stranger, but soon won the respect and esteem of all.

Sickness among the members of the school, diminished the daily attendance and was a source of discouragement. Yet the teacher labored on with a determination to do her whole duty. The scholars seemed ever ready to render cheerful obedience to all the requirements of the teacher.

The ease and quietness with which the scholars moved about the room, and the perfect order manifested in passing in and out of the school-room was very noticeable. The closing exercises were creditable to teacher and scholars, and a large number of visitors listened with interest. Singing by the school at three different times was highly appreciated.

Tardiness,	10	10
Number of visits by Board,	4	6
Number of visits by others,	25	31

NUMBER TWO.

The first term was in charge of Miss Vinie M. Richardson of Chester who brought to her aid some years of experience and tact, and seemed determined that progress should be the order of the day. The result was a more united district and a school interested in the various branches taught. Good order was maintained during the entire term.

Mental Arithmetic received much attention and good improvement in the various studies was very apparent. The school, aided by an organ, rendered good music examination day and all the exercises were unusually interesting. It was regretted by all that circumstances beyond her control prevented Miss Richardson from returning to the school.

The fall term was taught by Miss Clara Gage of Hudson. At our first visit we found the school much reduced in numbers, one scholar had retired from the school, three had moved from town, and two others were attending No. 6 school. The small number of scholars made it more difficult for the teacher to interest them in their studies, but by the exercise of much patience and perseverance aided by a willingness on the part of the scholars to do their best, much was accomplished during the term.

The school appeared well at the close.

	SPRING.	FALL.
Length in weeks,	10	13
Number of scholars,	19	11
Average attendance,	16	9
Tardiness,	18	24
Number of visits by Board,	2	2
Number of visits by others,	20	8
Wages per month,	$30	$30

The fund school was taught by Miss Clara Gage, and was only four weeks in length. Some of the younger scholars did not attend and there were but seven names on the register, but good interest was kept up and the school appeared well at the close.

Length in weeks,	8
No. of scholars,	7
Average attendance,	6
Tardiness,	3
No. of visits by Board,	3
No. of visits by others,	19
Wages,	$30

NUMBER THREE.

The spring and fall terms were taught by Mrs. Julia A. Eaton of Derry.

A winter term of four weeks was in charge of Miss Annie L. Moulton of Merrimac. The last day of school was a stormy one, and but few scholars present. We believe as much progress was made in the various branches taught as could reasonably be expected in so short a term.

	SPRING.	FALL.	WINTER.
Length in weeks,	9	10	4
Number of scholars,	20	21	17
Average attendance,	17	13	13
Tardiness,	18	24	0
No. of visits by Board,	2	2	5
No. of visits by others,	20	8	8
Wages,	$30	$30	$30

NUMBER FOUR.

This school had the benefit of 30 weeks schooling; eleven at the spring term, twelve in the autumn and seven of a fund term.

Taught with good success by Miss Cora C. Crosby of Derry, one who had the best interests of the scholars at heart, and by diligent labor, method, and well directed effort succeeded in accomplishing much for the school

	SPRING.	FALL.
Length in weeks,	11	12
Number of scholars,	11	9
Average attendance,	9	8
Tardiness,	10	0
No. of visits by Board,	3	3
No. of visits by others,	12	8
Wages,	$28	$30

The fund term being seven weeks in addition to the 23 of town expenditure is another proof of the wise forethought of the Fathers in availing themselves of the benefit of the "Simpson fund," as when once a school is in healthy progress, a few weeks continuation adds much to the advancement of the pupils.

NUMBER FIVE.

Spring term, eleven weeks.

Teacher, Miss Annie L. Moulton of Merrimack. Miss Moulton is a teacher of some experience and has a happy faculty of winning the confidence and respect of both parents and scholars. At home in the school-room, not confined to the text-book, but aiming to master principles rather than cover the ground, she soon placed her pupils on a basis for thorough work, which at the close of the term showed proof of time well spent. Several parents and friends showed their appreciation and interest in the good accomplished by their presence at the close.

The fall-term of 12 weeks, taught by the same teacher was equally successful; the scholars were interested in their work, quiet, orderly, and at home, so to speak, at each visit of the committee showing that their work was a pastime rather than a tax imposed for their vexation. The term was as expected a happy success, much credit also is due to a well directed home influence and hearty co-operation with the teacher and committee which was not only highly appreciated, but was a means of help and encouragement to the scholars.

	SPRING.	FALL.
Length in weeks,	11	12
Number of scholars,	13	17
Average attendance,	12	10
Tardiness,	4	0
No. of visits by Board,	3	5
No. of visits by others,	20	20
Wages,	$28	$30

NUMBER SIX.

Teacher of both terms was Miss Jennie Lowe of Derry who takes great interest in her pupils and labors hard to advance them in their various studies. She appears perfectly at home in the school-room and both terms were equally successful. A primer class of five we consider the best in town; and who were taught many useful things not contained in their books which we think very commendable and wish that more teachers would in this way prepare the young scholars for a more intelligent use of the text books.

We wish to call attention to the number of visitors during the fall term, and were pleased to see so much interest manifested by parents and friends.

	SPRING.	FALL.
Length in weeks,	12	11
Number of scholars,	9	13
Average attendance,	7	12
Tardiness,	7	13
No. of visits by Board,	4	3
No. of visits by others,	31	50
Wages,	$24	$24

The fund school was in charge of the same teacher and equally as successful as the previous terms. At the close of the exercises the last day. Miss Amy Milner presented the teacher in behalf of the scholars with a nice photograph album. It was a complete surprise to Miss Lowe and such evidences of appreciation and esteem are not soon forgotten.

Length in weeks,	8
No. of scholars,	12
Average attendance,	9
Tardiness,	10
No. of visits by Board,	3
No. of visits by others,	21
Wages,	$26

NUMBER SEVEN.

Miss Susan Merriam of this town commenced a school last spring but for want of scholars it was closed at the end of six weeks. Miss Grace Davis attended school at No. 5 in Derry and Lewis B. Savey attended a few weeks at No. 1 in this town.

Wages per month,

REMARKS.

We believe the school registers show a large amount of tardy and absent marks that might be avoided if parents felt more interest in the education of their children. The value and importance of a good education cannot be over-estimated. U. S. Senator Chandler in a speech recently delivered at Warner, said: "It is agreed on every side that all the greatest dangers to republicanism arise from, or are increased by illiteracy; and that the education of the masses of the people should be promoted by all apt and possible means. It is a trite subject, that of popular education; but it is the indispensable basis of our American liberty. If we can decrease illiteracy and secure education and that intelligence concerning public affairs which in these days of books and newspapers follows education we can save and perpetuate our free institutions."

The Trustees of the Nesmith Library in making their Twenty First annual report, record with pleasure that they find the books all in good condition, giving evidence of careful usage.

At their meeting in May 1891 they ordered the purchase of a New Ledger in which to record the transactions of the Library; and re-appointed Mr. John L. Bradford Librarian for the year. We have every reason to believe that this appointment has given entire satisfaction; several have spoken of Mr. Bradford's gentlemanly bearing and spirit of accomodation; and the Trustees wish to testify that they have found him accurate and efficient, prompt, diligent and faithful in the discharge of his duties.

About fifty new books have been added to the Library this year. These have been selected from the latest publications with care, and with a view to secure the best in different departments of literature. We hope they will be found interesting and profitable to their readers.

The Literary World, which has been of service in the matter of selecting new books, has again been subscribed for. Several books have been received from our State Department ; pamphlets also from the Board of Health ; and books and pamphlets from the U. S. Government, chiefly from the Bureau of Education, all of which are useful for consultation, and for them we make grateful acknowledgement to these several departments.

In closing, we trust it will not be thought improper that one who has but recently come to the place should add, that he considers the Nesmith Library a very valuable collection of books, which contains within itself the means of a liberal education to anyone who will avail himself of the privilege of using it with discrimination and persevering diligence ; and to express the hope that more of our young people will take advantage of their opportunity to become familiar with the Standard works in History, Poetry, Science, Art, Government and Religion.

Respectfully submitted,

WM. E. WESTERVELT, for the Trustees.
